Talk, Trends, & Thinking in Urban India
Brownbag lunch seminar

Sponsored by the Institute of Urban and Regional Development (IURD)

Wednesday, October 3 | 12-1 pm | 316D Wurster Hall

SPEAKER

Madhav Pai is the Director of EMBARQ India. He provides overall leadership and management to this program he co-started 5 years ago. EMBARQ India currently engages 30+ professionals and provides technical support to transport and urban development projects across India.

Madhav is a Civil Engineer from Mumbai and an alumnus of the Transport Engineering program here. He spent some time as a researcher at IURD, assessing impacts of City Car Share on travel behavior in the City of San Francisco.

SYNOPSIS

As India urbanizes - cities are making big decisions about how they build their transport. These decisions will have far reaching consequences and shape Indian cities of the future. Madhav will give a ringside view of these developments – talking about the successes, challenges, possibilities and contradictions.
