THIRD EVENT FOR IURD'S SPRING 2014 SERIES

TRANSIT & CITIES

PAST, PRESENT, FUTURE

TWO-DAY CONFERENCE PROGRAM

March 20–21, 2014

Transit is vital to the sustainability of cities—environmentally, economically, socially. Trains and buses are the most resourceful way of moving large numbers of people about the city. They use less space and energy and, when powered by clean fuels, emit fewer pollutants than any mode. They are also inclusive, allowing everyone—regardless of age, income or background—to access all a city has to offer. Join us and be a part of a growing movement that places transit, in its many shapes and forms, front and center in the campaign to create sustainable cities.
